

Media Release

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CONTACT: Cory Fleming, Senior Project Manager
202/468-3253, cfleming@icma.org

MOBILE WORKSHOPS AND WALKING TOURS FOR BROWNFIELDS 2006 SELECTED

Washington, D.C., June 1, 2006 – Brownfields 2006, the premier annual event on the remediation, redesign and redevelopment of potentially contaminated properties, has selected ten mobile workshops and walking tours in and around the Boston metropolitan area to feature when the conference comes to the city in November.

The mobile workshops and walking tours give conference participants an opportunity to see firsthand the brownfields redevelopment work that has been undertaken in the metropolitan region. The sites selected feature leading-edge technology, innovative financing strategies, unique collaborative partnerships, and creative design options that have revitalized the area. Communities and sites hosting this year's mobile workshops and walking tours include:

Mobile Workshops

- Providence, Rhode Island, including the Save The Bay Center
- East Boston and Boston Harbor
- Lawrence, Massachusetts
- Somerville, Massachusetts
- Lowell, Massachusetts
- Boston's Dudley Corridor
- Genzyme Center in Cambridge, Massachusetts
- Industri-Plex in Woburn, Massachusetts and Jordan's Furniture Complex in Reading, Massachusetts

Walking Tours

- Boston Convention and Exhibition Center
- Artists for Humanity EpiCenter in Boston

Brownfields 2006, a free conference, is expected to draw a national audience of over 5,000 professionals working in the field of brownfields redevelopment, and will be held at the Boston Convention and Exhibition Center from November 13-15, 2006. For more information on Brownfields 2006, visit the conference website at www.Brownfields2006.org.

#